

Nice title!

Drunk in Chinatown

The drinking age in China start at 18 ^{by} in law, but there are more and more Chinese ^{SV} children drinking ^{in the} at a young generation. In the US, the drinking age is 21, so when the Chinese student goes ^{VOG} aboard to study ^{and} when they want to drink alcohol, they will have ^{PL}

^{VT} used the fake ID for checking ID program. ^{CS} And they will go to the China town where is ^{how is this related?} IDs are not checked no checking ID. With the improvement of material living standards, ^{teenagers} more people drink alcohol among teenagers. During the party celebrations, people often drink alcohol and drink, drink a little beer or wine properly, ^{to} relieve fatigue, increase appetite, and help digestion. Many young people are drinking ^{due to} because they don't have a lack of self-control and Chinese drinking culture, ^{and VT} more and more young people drinking result in illegal ^{SV} activity, poor physical health, and psychical health.

Drinking ~~can be expected to~~ ^S result in death, accidents, murder, and suicide. Some studies report that about 27% of adolescents abuse alcohol, which means that the use of alcohol can affect their physical health, academic or work performance, and affecting their ability to cope with feelings of anger, anxiety or depression; they are with family and friends. The ability to communicate. Alcohol is the most harmful to the central nervous system. ^{on} The central nervous system has ^{Alcohol has} excitatory and inhibitory effects. A small amount can be excited, ^{VT} and any excess can form an inhibitory effect. If you drink too much, you will blush, talk nonsense, ^{or vomit} then stand still, even drunk, vomiting and so on. Then he was

Check sentence structure

Health effects

?

drowsy, pale, blood pressure dropped, and finally fell into a coma, which could also lead to difficulty breathing, suffocation, and alcoholism. The effects of alcohol on the central nervous system fall into two ^{categories} periods. With a small amount of alcohol consumption, the high level of neurological activity in the cerebral cortex is first suppressed, causing the control of the central cortex to be weakened by the sensor center, leading to loss of reason and restraint. It is characterized by so-called "excitement" and dizziness, nausea, vomiting and so on. Continue to drink; there will be incoherent, unstable, uncoordinated exercise and lethargy, coma, severe cases can die due to respiratory center paralysis. Due to adolescent optic nerve dysplasia, when the blood alcohol concentration reaches 15~55mg%, it will cause severe vision loss. When it reaches 200 to 300mg%, double attention may occur. After drinking, not only the nerve reflex speed is slowed down, but also the damage of alcohol to brain cells is quite significant, which is extremely unfavorable to brain development, resulting in reduced learning efficiency, difficulty in creating ideal effects in sports competitions, and prone to production accidents and traffic accidents.

Most Chinese students drink because they have no self-control. The concept of right and wrong of adolescents is not very clear, and the willpower is not strong enough. Most Chinese students came to the United States for the first time in adolescence, so they did not get good self-control. Most of them are followers. In China, they live with their parents, so parents can manage and educate them. They will develop rules for children to bind them. Therefore, when they come to the United States, they will fail to meet the

This sounds machine-translated. Please summarize in your own words, about 2 the length.

Citations needed

Use a contrast word

standards of their parents. For example, I get a friend. He was the first person to go abroad, so he was strange to everything around him. When friends around him go to drink, he will follow them to drink, even if his parents strictly forbid him to drink, he will still drink with them. They are going to drink with them because they have weak self-control.

Is this a real story?
Or just imagining?
Check the verb tense (v).

CS [There more and more Chinese people drink alcohol they may not look at the age which cannot drink, they will use the fake id for checking. It is a hazardous thing to do. It is illegal things to do. But they did not realize the seriousness of the matter; they were fearless. I have a classmate who has many fake ids from various states in his car. Every time he drives a car, he will show off. One day, he was galloping on the highway, and the police uncle stopped the speed. When he checked the driver's license, he accidentally handed the fake id he had just brought to the police. In the end, he get few months of court investigations and various legal related expenses. Although it allows me to enter and leave the bar smoothly, if the police discover it, the F-1 visa as an international student will not be guaranteed. What is more, the school will force you to withdraw your studies. It is very severe.

✓
fake ID effect

students/young people
Most people get drunk because they do not have self-control, and they don't have much knowledge about the wrong things for drinking alcohol. I suggest the parent and the school should start some class which can help the student to know the wrong thing for drinking alcohol. And have a good connection with their parent to talk about those with to let the parent know their children.

Nice conclusion ✓

Add paragraph transition (You're switching from effects to causes)

How about the Chinese drinking culture? You might find this in your thesis.

Works Cited

Work site

"Alcohol and Health: The Good, the Bad, and the Ugly." Healthline, Healthline Media, www.healthline.com/nutrition/alcohol-good-or-bad#section14. ✓

C 20

S 15

CT 17

O 18

GM 15

85

Nice details, and interesting causes/effects.
Make sure you are not copying directly from a source, and include all citations.
Also, please revise for grammar.